H. A. Dalby Is Sued for Note Collection

O. E. Smith has filed suit in circuit court against H. A. Dalby of Hopkins for the collection of three notes amounting to $1,858.50, for hearing at the January term of court.

Sues Shipping Assn. for $1297 on Hogs

Lawson McIntyre Brings Suit Against Livestock Shipping Association of Burlington Junction.

Lawson McIntyre, a farmer near Burlington Junction, has brought suit for $1,297.57 against the Livestock Shipping Association of Burlington Junction. Those named among the defendants are George Westfall, R. H. Yates, Frank Walker, Luther Fast, J. C. Barr, J. W. Headrick, C. D. Nicholas and C. H. Miller.

Mr. McIntyre in his suit, filed in the circuit court for the January term, alleges that the shipping association owes him for a load of hogs that was sold for him May 17, 1926.

He claims that the association, a voluntary organization engaged in soliciting and shipment of livestock, has failed to turn over to him the receipts of the sale of his hogs, although he has made repeated demands.

TRAIN CHANGE IS CRITICISED

TOWNS TO WEST PROTEST POOR LOCAL SERVICE.

MAIL IS SLOWED UP

Letters From Burlington Junction And Blanchard Often Take Roundabout Way To Maryville.

Towns west of Maryville are criticising the changes in the time of the Wabash trains, which were effective last Sunday.

The Democrat-Forum's correspondent at Burlington, the Rev. J. Howard Thompson, writes:

"The change of trains over the Wabash is working a real hardship on Burlington Junction, both in mail service and passenger traffic. It would seem that a town such as Burlington Junction is and always has been, with a railroad crossing and the amount of railroad business it furnishes, entitled to more consideration than it is getting in the deal. Most mail now, to reach our county seat, must either go south in the afternoon via St. Joseph or north in the forenoon via Creston, greatly inconveniencing our business."

"It will greatly inconvenience not only local people, but many passengers who come in on the Burlington and change trains here. The matter should be placed before the Public Service Commission and at least an effort made to get better service than the present schedule affords."

The State Line Herald at Blanchard says in part:

"Local travel east and south is made difficult, however. If one goes even to Elmo and back on the train he must stay all night. Through passengers can catch No. 14 at Maryville and the only inconvenience is a little earlier start and a change of trains.

"But when it comes to mail, we are hit hard. There is no mail man on the local trains. No mail is 'worked' on the train—whatever is carried is carried as express. The pouches from here go through to Council Bluffs, and only closed pouches are taken from connecting roads. Omaha papers are a day old when received here, but when the new routings are made Des Moines papers will get here in time, as St. Joseph and Kansas City papers do now.

"Oh! it could be worse and we will get used to it in time.

"We understand that the citizens of Coin have sent a protest against the mail service to the Wabash officials. If all of the towns on the road will join in the protest it may bring about some change. But if only one or two take action, nothing will be done."

Johns Hopkins Man Opens Office Here

Dr. Bernard S. French, formerly of Washington, D. C., a graduate of John Hopkins University, opened an office today at 214½ North Main street, above the Superior Cleaning Company.

Dr. French completed his study in medicine in 1919 and surgery in 1923. Since that time he has been associated with several hospitals in the East, including the Philadelphia Memorial Hospital.

Miss Anna Blatter will be the nurse in charge of Dr. French's office.

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. McKee and daughters, Doris and Ogle, of Orrsburg were shopping in Maryville Saturday.

STATE O. K.'S STORES HERE

CONDITIONS GOOD, SAYS FOOD AND RUG INSPECTOR.

WOULD IMPROVE EGGS

Campaign for Better Care and Marketing Has Brought Better Prices, He Declares.

Maryville establishments dealing in foodstuffs are in "fine condition" and fully meet all requirements of the Missouri state food and drug department, it was declared today by C. H. Manville, an inspector for the department, with headquarters at St. Joseph.

"Of course anyone can find fault, but, generally speaking Maryville is in mighty good shape," the inspector said. He added that practically all the trouble given the state's food and drug department came from the larger cities and especially from the foreign sections.

Manville was not inspecting stores and resturants on this trip, but was checking up on sales of beverages, on which the state levies a tax. Since recent consolidations, the food and drug department has taken over this work and also that of inspection of hotels.

A large part of the department's time is being given to an improvement of the quality of eggs produced on Missouri farms. Inspector Manville devoted considerable time to this in Nodaway county about a year ago, and he said today that egg dealers had told him that the situation had "improved 50 per cent."

"As a result of the better egg movement," the inspector said, "Missouri eggs, which once sold in the eastern markets only after all others were taken, now sell right along with all the others. A better market naturally has enabled dealers to pay farmers a better price for their eggs."

Manville left this afternoon but will return to Maryville shortly after the first of the year and hold several meetings designed to improve egg marketing conditions here.

"The egg candling law has been much misunderstood in Missouri," the inspector said. "Some farmers used to think that dealers were only trying to steal part of their eggs and that afterwards the rejected eggs were put back in the cases. Now it is generally realized that this is an important work and that it is resulting in better prices for the farmer's product."

The law provides, he pointed out, that rejected eggs must be destroyed, or, if given back to the owner, must be denatured or broken.

"Five hundred thousand eggs are lost in the state of Missouri every year by improper care,' Manville declared, 'Another half million are lost because roosters are kept with the hens."

He pointed out the value of good nests, keeping the eggs clean, the hens healthy and the roosters out. He described the grading of eggs on size and cleanliness, and predicted a system soon whereby the producers of better eggs would receive a premium.

Eggs should be gathered regularly twice a day in hot weather, and marketed each day, he added.

Wins $10,000 Damage Suit at Des Moines

George R. Ellison returned yesterday from Des Moines, where he was engaged for over a week in the trial of a lawsuit against the Bell Telephone Company and R. M. Bolby in behalf of Roy Wilkinson of Mount Ayr, Ia., Word was received this morning that the jury had returned a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $10,000.

A barn was being moved along the public road near Mount Ayr and came to a place where the highway was crossed by some Bell telephone wires. Bolby, alleged to be acting as an employe of the Bell Telephone company, lowered the telephone wires to the ground to permit the barn to pass over them. While they were hanging slack, a few feet above the ground, an automobile came down the road and ran into them and pushed them out sideways with great violence against the plaintiff Wilkinson, who was walking along the road. He sustained serious injuries, including a fracture of a vertebra.

Council Brings Joy to Dogdom; Annual Tax Is Cut in Half

Doggies, big and little, shaggy or otherwise, that are registered somewhere on the dog book as three months of age or over, will be able to wag their tails—if they have any—or prick up their ears, for $1.50 a year, the city council has decided.

This is exactly $1.50 less than their owners have been obliged to pay in the past under the 1924 ordinance. The council, after more than one evening of discussion, finally decided last night, at an adjourned meeting, that the present dog ordinance should be amended and lowered the annual tax. The change goes into effect after ten days.

The new tax on dogs becomes due January 1, 1927, or any time that a dog is brought within the city and kept here, or when a dog reaches the age designated by the council. Owners of dogs who violate the amended dog ordinance are subject to a fine of from $1 to $50.

THREE SUITS FILED TODAY

ONE AGAINST WABASH

Edwin O. Goodspeed Claims Damages of $590.—Today Last for Filing of Major Cases.

Three suits, two for damages and one to quiet title, were filed in circuit court up to 2 p. m. today, the last day to file suits, except those on notes and accounts, for trial at the January term.

Edwin O. Goodspeed, living southeast of Maryville, brought suit for $590 damages against the Wabash Railway Company. He alleges in his petition that the Wabash, whose lines traverse his land, has been negligent in providing for proper drainage alnog its right-of-way. He claims that by reason of the failure to provide an outlet for water to the 102 River, the water has backed up along the Wabash tracks and damaged his crops.

Edgar S. Henderson filed suit against Robert R. Rice, and others, to quiet title. The land named in the petition is a portion of the northeast quarter of section 6, township 62, range 35, located five and a half miles southwest of Arkoe.

Ed. A. Belcher, et al, asks damages of $724.50 from Ross A. Scott, and others, over 8.05 acres of land which he claims the defendants failed to convey when a quarter of section was purchased from them for $14,400, or $90 an acre.

The land is located two miles north of Maryville, being designated as the northwest quarter of section ten, township 64, range 35.

This land is now owned by the county as a highway and by the drainage district, and Belcher has no re-course to recover the land. The claim is made by the plaintiff that the defendant failed to inform him that the 8.05 acres was not attached to the quarter of section and that he paid the $14,400 in good faith for the entire 160 acres.

Sale Proceeds to Welfare Board.

The Girl Scouts are holding a cookie and candy sale today at the Bee Hive Shoe Store. The proceeds will be turned over to the Maryville Welfare board for the purpose of buying stockings for needy children.

SITUATION IN LEAGUE DARK

AMBASSADORS WON'T GIVE UP GERMAN ARMAMENT CONTROL.

SECRET PARLEY FAILS

Geneva, Dec. 11.—The situation at the Council of the League of Nations appears dark here today, as word from Paris indicated that the council of ambassadors headed by Marshal Foch, was unwilling to agree to transfer the control of German armaments from the Inter-Allied Council of which Foch is the head, to the League of Nations.

A secret meeting of the "big five" in the office of Foreign Minister Chamberlain of England broke up, with Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany emerging from the room livid with anger. Foreign Minister Briand remained inside, conferring with Chamberlain.

The crux of the situation is an attempt to throttle Germany's war material industries. It is intimated that Chamberlain is supporting Briand, whose views are controlled by the ambassadors' council and the French crisis. Admittedly a crisis has been reached in the negotiations, although Briand will meet the German delegation again tonight to receive whatever new propositions Stresemann and his associates may present.

Both Sides Close in Fall-Doheny Trial

After Argument by Attorneys and Judge's Charge, Case Will Go to Jury for Decision.

Washington, Dec. 11.—After brief rebuttal testimony in the Fall-Doheny trial, both sides announced today they were through with the presentation of evidence, and only the summary by counsel and the judge's charge to the jury remain before the case goes into the hands of twelve youthful jurors for decision.

The defense closed its direct testimony at 9:43 a. m., after John McCormack, tenor, had testified to Doheny's good character.

Then the prosecution presented brief rebate testimony, consisting chiefly of records of the Senate oil hearings and the Los Angeles civil trial to test the legality of the Pearl Harbor-Elk Hills transactions.

The defense presented no rebuttal testimony.

WILL ENFORCE IT 'LAWFULLY'

NEW PROHIBITION ADMINISTRATOR QUALIFIES DRY STAND.

4TH AMENDMENT TOO

Just as Much Part of Constitution as 18th, Says Haley.—Silent on Reorganization.

Washington, Dec. 11.—The new federal prohibition administrator for Missouri, Kansas and southern Illinois, Sam S. Haley, Jefferson City, Mo., intends to enforce the prohibition law, but he is going to do his enforcing "lawfully," he declared today.

Haley was appointed administrator by General Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant Secretary of Treasury, in charge of prohibition enforcement.

The administrator will leave Washington immediately to take up his new duties and will have nothing to say concerning reorganization of the district until he has made a survey of the situation.

"I am for strict enforcement of the law, of course," Haley said, "in accordance with the laws, and the whole of the Constitution. I recognize, too, there is a Fourth amendment, and that the Fourth amendment is just as much a part of the Constitution as the Eighteenth."

The Fourth amendment provides that search warrants shall not be issued without sufficient cause. The Eighteenth relates to prohibition.

"As to reorganization, if any," Haley continued, "I am not prepared to say at this time, and will not be until I have made a thorough survey of the situation in the office and in the district."

M .C. U. Names Braden President of League

Athletic Circuit Discusses Inelegibility of Bob White and Henry Iba of Missouri Valley.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 11.—Election of officers for the coming year and an investigation of the ruling which declared Henry Iba and Bob White, Westminster football players ineligible following the Westminster-Central game Thanksgiving occupied the time of coaches, athletic directors and faculty members at the meeting of the Missouri College Union here today.

Dr. Braden of Missouri Valley, Marshall, was elected president.

Professor Davis of William Jewell, Liberty, was elected secretary-treasurer and Professor F. A. Culmer of Central College, Fayette, was re-elected judge of eligibility.

Immediately after the election James Pixlee, Westminster coach, and Dean Swazey of the Fulton school brought up the question of the eligibility of White and Iba. These two men were declared ineligible by Professor Culmer after the Westminster-Central game.

Pixlee declared he had a previous ruling from Culver that the men were eligible. At this time the members voted to go into secret session in order to decide the matter and carried it over the protest of Pixlee and Swazey.

LEGISLATION IS IN BACKGROUND

CONGRESS IN TANGLE OF POLITICAL "ISSUES."

ELECTION INQUIRY SET

Senate Committee Is Called Into Session Today In Effort To Solidify Republican Ranks.

Washington, Dec. 11.—Winding up the first week of its session, Congress today found itself embroiled in a tangle of election and political issues, with legislation still in the background.

Four primary election investigations are to be reopened next week; a bribery charge against a new senator is to be investigated Monday; resolutions are pending to bar presentation of credentials of two senators-elect; election contests involving one or two other states are being threatened; and a charge involving a 1924 primary campaign is to be laid before another committee.

The senate committee of committees was called into session today in an effort to solidify Republican ranks. Most Republican leaders will support the plan to restore western insurgents to the party organization but a few oppose the move because it would elevate the insurgents to chairmanships of important committees and to other positions of power.

House leaders tried unsuccessfully to restore peace several days ago but were forced to postpone action another week in hopes that after the Senate acted, House insurrectionists would fall into line.

Regardless of how the important movement comes out, here is what must be faced in the coming week:

Witnesses will be heard by the Reed primary committee, winding up inquiries into the Pennsylvania, Illinois, Oregon and Arizona primaries. The day of the hearing is yet to be set.

Senator Arthur Gould, Republican, Maine, will appear before a special elections subcommittee Monday to present his defense against the charge of bribery made against him several years ago by Judge McKeown of a New Brunswick Canadian court in connection with a railroad building project.

A successor is to be selected by Governor Len Small of Illinois to fill the seat left vacant by the death of Senator McKinley, and if Frank L. Smith, senator-elect, is appointed, a fight is planned against permitting him to take the seat. Republican leaders here have counseled Small against appointing Smith.

Democrats are considering the advisability of instituting election contests in Pennsylvania and Indiana.

Charges made by John Neal, Knoxville, attorney, that Senator Tyson, Democrat, Tennessee, spent $1,800,000 in the 1924 primary, are to be laid before the privileges and elections committee, probably Tuesday or Wednesday.

Fifty Years Ago

The real estate transfers for the week ending December 24 amount to $13,684.

The sidewalks are awful slippery to the great delight of the little boys and disgust of the big ones.

Maryville Lodge No. 165, A. F. & A. M., will hold its annual election of officers at its next regular communication, on Saturday evening, the 16th of December.

The stairway leading to the second story of the Nodaway Valley Bank building will soon be changed so as to enter from Main street instead of Third street as at present.

Hopkins has organized a moot legislature. A full list of state officers have been chosen, with James M. Pierce as Governor. The Governor has been requested to lay before the body his message at his earliest convenience.

We are advised by J. W. Harman, Esq., of Pickering that at the annual election of Pickering Lodge No. 472, A. F. & A. M., held at Pickering, Dec. 2, 1876, the following officers were elected: W. M. Wallis, W. M.; J. H. Johnson, S. W.; J. C. Pistole, J. W.; W. M. Pistole, treasurer; J. W. Harman, sec. Installation at 6 o'clock Saturday, December 30. Brethren from neighboring lodges respectfully invited.

W. T. Crenshaw of Independence township sold in Maryville on last Wednesday eight hogs, which averaged 377 pounds in weight. Who can beat it?

Sheriff Beech turned over his office in apple-pie order to his successor, Joseph M. Cooper, on last Monday. What business Mr. Beech will engage in we are unable to say. He has the satisfaction of knowing that he has made a capable officer, and retires from the position which he has so ably filled for four years past with the best wishes of a regiment of friends.

Luton Exonerated of Murder Charge

Both He and Hal Howard, However, Post $5,000 Bond On Second Indictment.—Judge's Action Praised.

Terrence Luton, as well as Hal Howard, was exonerated of murder charges resulting from the death of Pansy Turnbull of Diagonal, Ia., according to this week's Times-Republican at Bedford, where the case was tried.

The paper says, in part:

"J. R. Locke, chief defense counsel, later asked for exoneration of Luton because of Howard's acquittal, which was granted.

"Both lads, however, posted a $5,000 bond each, which was required on a second indictment accusing them of an attempt to commit criminal assault. Whether the charge will be pressed is not known or has not been announced.

"Judge Maxwell's prompt action in directing a verdict saved taxpayers thousands of dollars as the case would have lasted a week or more longer and expense was tremendous each day, and the same result would have been reached in all probability.

"The action of Judge Maxwell has met with general approval and the crowds in the court room rushed forward to congratulate young Howard, resulting in quite a demonstration."

Existence of High School Annual at Stake; Sale Short

Does the 1927 "Maryvillian" the annual publication of the senior class of the Maryville High School face extinction? Will there be any more high school annuals?

The question marks will remain until the student body answers Monday afternoon. Unless two hundred and seventy-five copies are sold, which will assure the staff that all bills will be met, there will be no 1927 Maryvillian—and no more year books thereafter!

An active campaign for the sale of the book has been going on for the past week. It was announced in assembly at the start that the sale would officially close on the afternoon of December 10, at 3:45 o'clock. That time arrived yesterday. A check-up on sales showed that only 175 books had been paid for in full or in part, 100 short of the guarantee for a 1927 publication.

With the Maryvillian's existence at stake, the students were called in assembly, thirty minutes before the "zero hour," and asked what they intended to do about it. More than fifteen opinions were uttered by students and members of the faculty. All subscribed to the sentiment that the annual should not be discontinued. Students having worked on annuals of the past stated that they were interested in the continuation of the Maryvillian.

An agreement was reached to hold the sale over until Monday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock. If the required number is not reached and interest on the part of those who have not purchased still is lagging, the annual "goes west."

Leaders among the students believe that the number will be reached, and a great number are endeavoring to convert others to the doctrine that every student should own a book.

If the sale is successful the election of annual queen will be announced.

It is necessary that the sale close in ample time, as all cuts must be in the hands of the engravers by December 15 in order to get a discount.

This and That

There wasn't much doing at Wilcox today. The telephone operator told it this way. "The ice is all melted and no one slipped and hurt themselves, nobody's dead, nobody's dying—there just ain't no news here."

When Addison Byron Hartman's mother read in the Democrat-Forum last night that her son said he had not been spanked this year she was a bit surprised and said to her son, "Why, I have spanked you three times lately."

The child answered, "Yes, but mother, before Christmas they're love spanks, and I wasn't going to tell those people I got spanked."

A mysteriously addressed letter passed through the Maryville postoffice the other day. It was addressed to "Inner state of Commerce, Merryville, Mo."

Its contents were as follows:

"Lancaster mo Dec 9-26

"Inner state of Commerce

The letter was answered by the Chamber of Commerce, for which it evidently was originally intended.

"That evening we were given an entertainment and dinner as guests of Wilson & Co.

"After dinner we were addressed by Thos E. Wilson, chairman of National Committee on Boys and Birls Club work and president of Wilson & Co.

"After the program the entire delegation formed a parade in the arena at the International grounds. The 4-H club champions were then announced.

"Tuesday morning our batallion, No. 2, took special elevated to Swift & Co., plant. Here we were served breakfast and later taken on a trip through their plant.

"At noon we were served at luncheon at the Chicago Athletic Club as guests of the Chicago Livestock Exchange.

"The delegates were then divided for the afternoon, the boys going to the Field Museum and the girls to the Art Institute.

"The trip to the Field Museum was one our our most interesting experiences. This museum was founded in 1893 by Marshall Field. The building is of white marble and is fireproof. It contains objects of historical interest gathered from all parts of the world.

"Tuesday evening the club members own banquet was held in the Grand Ball Room of the Sherman Hotel. Here the winners of the health contest and style show were announced.

"Wednesday morning the boys were taken to Argo, Ill., on a special train by the Chicago and Alton Railroad.

"Here we visited the plant of the Corn Products Refining Co. They manufacture corn sugar, gloss starch, corn starch, syrup, glucose, and cooking oil from corn. They make all of the cans and boxes to contain their products right in the plant. This is the largest plant of its kind in the world. They use over 20,000,000 bushels of corn annually. After the trip through the plant we were given luncheon in their restaurant.

"Afternoon we went to Lincoln park and visited the zoo.

"Wednesday evening there was a banquet at the Congress Hotel given us by the National Live Stock Producers Association.

"The program for the evening included music by the College Four and an address by S. H. Tomposn, president of American Farm Bureau Federation.

"Thursday morning we visited the McCormick plant of the International Harvester Co. Here we saw them molding, polishing and assembling the different parts of the McCormick-Deering 10-20 tractor.

"Lunch was served us as guests of the company.

"Immediately after lunch we were addressed by Cyrus H. McCormick, chairman of board of directors of I. H. C.

"We then went through the twine plant where we saw the different processes of making binding twine.

"From there we took special surface cars to the Roosevelt Theatre, where we attended a show by courtesy of Balaban Haly Corporation.

"Thursday evening the final banquet was given by the railroads, in the Grand Ball Room of the La Salle Hotel. The music for the evening was furnished by the Pullman Porters Quartette and the address by Edgar A. Guest.

Leo J. Halasey Sane, Guilty, Jurors Find in Mock Trial

Leo J. Halasey, of Maryville, a senior law student at St. Louis University, is not crazy. A jury of his peers last night so held after a hearing attended by 400 young men and women, who crowded into the court room in St. Louis. Halasey was charged with assault with intent to kill a fellow law student.

At this point, it should be stated that the hearing was only a mock trial and the courtroom is at the university. Circuit Judge Robert W. Hall presided. Senior law students made up the array of counsel for state and defense, while the jury consisted of students from the night law school.

The complaining witness, John Thomas Casey, was the first called. Under direction of attorneys for the state, he told the following story:

"It was in the classroom on the morning of Nov. 10. I was sitting about five seats back of the defendant. It was very cold outdoors, but despite this, Halasey opened a window. I got up and closed it. He opened it again. I again closed it.

"He came back to my desk and demanded that I apologize. I didn't take him seriously. Then he pulled a dagger six inches long from his coat pocket and stabbed me in the chest."

The crowd cheered. The witness, a much larger man physically than the defendant, was asked on cross-examination if he had not indirectly threatened Halasey by asking him to engage in a boxing exhibition. This he denied.

"Well," asked the counsel, "You at one time boxed Buddy Taylor, a noted pugilist, didn't you?"

"Yes," said Casey, "but I didn't get any money for it."

More cheers from the spectators.

"We were hardly seated before he began to rave about Casey being a German," she said. "The usher threw us both out."

Halasey's landlady, a Mrs. Walsh, was asked what sort of hours he kept. She replied that he usually got in very late.

"A regular guy," murmured one of the spectators, but the cheers ceased when Mrs. Walsh explained that he worked nights at the postoffice.

A prominent alienist, an alumnus of the university, was called in rebuttal by the state. He said:

"Halasey is suffering from a mental disarrangement, but I wouldn't like to call it insanity."

The jury deliberated fifteen minutes, returning a verdict of guilty, sentencing Halasey to four years in some penitentiary. He, of course, appealed.

NODAWAY COUNTY FARM NEWS

By BILLY TILSON.

James Aldrich, southeast of Barnard, was a Maryville visitor yesterday. He says over half of the corn down that way is in the crib. Quite a few hogs are being fed in his community, but there is very little feeding in the cattle line.

George Ulmer, west of Hopkins, shipped out his cattle the first of the week. He says he has no complaint the way they treated him. There is money to be made in cattle if they are bought right and fed with care, Mr. Ulmer says. He declares too many farmers pay too high for their feeders and the margin is so small that a small decline in the market puts them in the "red."

Guy Simmons, south of Orrsburg, was transacting business in the city yesterday. He says there is quite an acreage of corn in the fields up his way.

Mack Ulmer, northwest of Pickering, was a Maryville visitor yesterday. Mack says he has his corn all gathered. He is feeding a load of cows and a load of hogs. He will ship his cows and part of his hogs Monday.

A. A. Ringold, southwest of Hopkins, says he has only about half of his corn cut of the field. Mr. Ringold is feeding a fine bunch of hogs. In feeding he never waits until the whole bunch is ready to go but when a few are ready, he sends them to the market, and he finds it a profitable way to do.

Will Anderson, west of Bedison, says he has considerable corn in the field. He reports his corn making a fair yield and says some of the farmers have their corn in the crib down that way.

Ben Neal and sons, southeast of the city, have around 5,000 bushels of corn in the crib and around 1,000 bushels yet to gather. They say it has been an unfavorable fall for husking, but they have just kept going and did the best they could under the conditions.

Frank Meyers, southeast of the city, has his corn all in the crib. He says some farmers on the river bottoms have scarcely any corn gathered.

E. L. Jackson and George Garrett, southwest of Barnard, were transacting business in Maryville yesterday. Farmers down their way are mostly through gathering corn. They report the yield only fair and not a very good quality.

C. J. Merigan and son of Maryville and Clyde had hogs on the St. Joseph market yesterday. They were well pleased with the sale.

does the average woman use when she washes at home or has the work done there? We'll not make any statement, for you women who wash or have washed know that. We will venture, however, to say that it is doubtful if any woman uses five rinse waters at home. That is the number we use in our wet wash service and every drop of it rain-soft.

Maryville Girl's Work as Teacher Is Praised

"An Artist Beyond Doubt," Says Merrill, Wis., Newspaper of Miss Margaret Dietz.

Miss Margaret Dietz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Dietz, has received several favorable comments about her work as musical supervisor of the city schools of Merrill, Wis. Merrill is a city of 8,000.

Miss Dietz is a graduate of the Maryville High School and the State Teachers College here. She taught for two years in the Jefferson ward school here, and one year at Greenwood, Neb., going this year to Merrill.

Mr. and Mrs. Dietz have two other daughters who are teaching away from Maryville. Miss Edna Dietz is on the faculty of Sioux City, Ia., schools, and Miss Grace Dietz is with Louisburg, N. C., schools.

The following comments are from the Merrill Daily Herald about Miss Margaret Dietz:

"The Merrill high school orchestra, under the direction of Miss Margaret Dietz, music supervisor of the Merrill public schools, has entered the ranks of real orchestration, as was demonstrated in the splendid rehearsal given yesterday afternoon before the Merrill Rotary Club.

"The orchestra played three numbers, a march entitled 'Zouaves', an overture, 'Magneta', and the rally selection, 'On Wisconsin', all of which were played with unusual ability and musical precision."

Another comment was made on Miss Dietz' rendition of a violin solo before the Merrill Woman's Alliance. It says in part:

"Miss Margaret Dietz, musical directress of the city schools, next favored with a beautiful violin solo, 'Concerto in G Minor,' which pleased her audience so much that they clamored for an encore, which she very graciously rendered. Ever since Miss Dietz came to Merrill and appeared on programs, we have been hearing most extravagant reports of her talent, but after Saturday's program, we find that the most enthusiastic reports have underrated her. She is an artist beyond all doubt."

The feature of the week at the Missouri comes on Tuesday and Wednesday, when Richard Barthelmess appears in "The Amateur Gentleman," a romance of England in the early days. A son of an ex-pugilist determines to be a man of quality. The father makes a condition that the son must whip him in fisticuffs before he will permit him to become a gentleman.

A popular stage success comes to the Electric Wednesday and Thursday in picture form. "Aloma of the South Seas" on the stage had much of appeal, but it did not have the one and only Gilda Gray, who goes on the theory that figures speak louder than words. Percy Marmont, Warner Baxter and Julanne Johnston are other featured players in the picture.

DEAN TIMOTHY BROWN is resolved to make Judith drop her student friends and come into the faculty fold. She refuses to give up Eric.

MYRA ALDRICH, in love with Eric, is jealous of Judith.

Judith befriends Mrs. Brown, when "KITTY" SHEA, town bootlegger, blackmails her with a story of her trip to the city to meet her lover.

Judith appeals to Eric to shut Shea up.

Spending the Christmas holidays alone in Myra's sorority house, Judith is terrified when Shea tries to force an entrance. She shoots in the air and drives him away.

A few days later, the body of Shea is found under his car in a creek just out of town. His pockets are full of letters.

Judith, remembering her shot, asks Eric whether there were any bullet holes in Shea's body.

Judith, coming home with Will Wetherel, Eric's frat brother, meets, Myra, rushing out of the boarding house, crying, "Eric's been arrested."

A few days later, Shea's body is found under his car, in a creek bed. Eric is arrested, because a letter in Shea's pocket is addressed to him.

Mrs. Brown comes to Judith and insists that they must save Eric.

Judith remembers a bruise acquired by Eric about the time of Shea's death.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVI.

The inquest over Shea's body was held behind closed doors. Groups that waited outside the coroner's office all of a wet afternoon turned away disappointed when the coroner and his assistants left the building silently at six o'clock.

Will Wetherel brought the news that there was no news to Judith, waiting at the hotel nearby.

She was sitting by the mezzanine rail, watching the lobby doors below. When he waved his hand to her and shook his head sadly, Judith lay back in the armchair and waited for him to climb the stairs.

"Nothing doing, Jude," he said, when he came up. "Not a word to be had from the coroner or any of the rest."

She rose slowly and gathered her coat about her. They went down the stairs and through the lobby.

"We'll eat at the Tavern," said Will, and buy a paper there." She neither assented nor objected.

"Saw old Brown this afternoon," said Wetherel, as they seated themselves at a table, "and he was looking like the cat that ate the canary. Shea murdered and Eric in jail—what more could the old pussyfoot want?"

"Murdered?" repeated Judith. "Is that the general opinion?"

Wetherel shook his head. "No. There are a number of conflicting ones. But the detention of Eric is making people talk."

Judith clasped her hands. "Isn't there any way for Eric to prove his alibi?"

Wetherel considered. "I haven't been able to talk to him. I tried to see him today, but they said it wasn't visitors' hours."

Judith nodded. "That's more of Brown's work. It's always visitors' hours in that little jail. They surely don't observe strict rules as the city jails do."

"Perhaps Brown did have something to do with it. He is certainly hot on the trail and I can see why. If Shea is dead, and they can bag Eric to show to the legislators, to prove that now Pendleton will be as pure as snow, what a feather in the cap of the discipline chairman!"

Judith sipped her tea. There were heavy smudges around her eyes, and the rouge showed plainly against her white cheeks. Her hands clutched the teacup nervously.

"You've been mighty good, Will. I don't want to impose upon you. We'll go home after this."

"No trouble at all, Jude—though I never wanted to do anything before for a dame that never winked a wink at me, or showed a garter."

Judith smiled feebly at him.

"Wish I could stay with you all evening," said Will. "Like nothing better. But those damn 'Blood and Sand' rehearsals! It's a great responsibility to hold these leading roles." He thrust his chest out slightly.

"When does rehearsal start?" queried Judith, looking at the clock.

A deep voice interrupted them. Dr. Dorn was leaning over their table. "I overheard your words," he said, as Wetherel rose from his chair. "Will you allow me to take you home, Miss Martin?"

Judith nodded. "If you like," she said, with a hint of weariness in her voice.

The professor flushed. "If you prefer—" he began, but Wetherel interrupted.

"Sure, that will be hotsie-totsie. I felt rotten about sending Judith home alone, but you know these demands of the stage. An actor can't call his soul or his evenings his own."

Dr. Dorn helped Judith arrange her wraps, and they started for the door. "Would you prefer to ride or to walk?" he asked, on the sidewalk outside.

Judith looked around her. "Let's walk," she said. "I'm not equal to that boarding house for a little while."

The man kept silence, walking beside her down the main street and turning into the side street that led to the campus. His head was bent somewhat and he walked as though lost in thought.

In the entrance to the campus, he said to her, "I suppose you have had a grueling day, Judith."

She nodded. "It hasn't been a gala day, at any rate."

"I've been thinking about you all day," he said, simply. "Wishing I could help."

Judith sighed. "Thank you, Dr. Dorn. But evidently nobody can help. I seem to be marked for tragedy these days. And I can't get used to it."

There was another break in the conversation, lasting many moments.

As they passed the mounds, Judith looked up at the Big Dipper. "Under the wide and starry sky," she said, with a little catch in her voice, "dig the grave and let me lie."

Dr. Dorn looked at her in silence. Judith put her hand on his arm. "I'm just laughing at the people who told me that schoolteaching was dead. 'Just going into a tomb for nine months out of the year,' they said to me.

"And see what a lively time I'm having! Oh, but I'm too close to a tomb at that." She shivered against him.

"Don't think such morbid thoughts," said Dr. Dorn. "I can't bear to hear you talk so. After all, if your own conscience is clear, nothing can hurt you very much."

Judith laughed scornfully. "Perhaps it is because you are a teacher, a man of science, that you're nearly always wrong about matters of simple, human truth. I'm very sorry for you."

The professor loosened his pressure on her arm. When he next spoke, there was cold resentment in his voice. "I don't understand you, Judith."

"Well, this is what I mean. You say that a clear conscience protects one from serious damage. It doesn't. I've seen the most innocent people suffer worse than the guiltiest. Take Eric Waters, for example. What good will a clear conscience do him, after this disgrace?"

Dr. Dorn's body stiffened. "I have nothing to say of Eric Waters, Judith. His own wilfulness has led him into these troubles. Having through folly incurred this disgrace, he'll have to see it through as best he can, alone. That is the way of the world."

"No," said Judith. "He isn't altogether alone. I am Eric's friend. If he is innocent, he needs me. And if he is not innocent, heaven knows he needs me more. I haven't anything to do with your easy little doctrine of retribution. And I certainly shan't desert Eric."

"Judith," said the professor pleadingly, "don't run into the same folly yourself. You've see what results from Eric's way. Now why can't you pull back and fall in step with those who warned him?"

"Are you," said Judith, looking into his eyes, "by chance trying to reform me?"

Dr. Dorn drew back. "No," he said, "I'm a fool to meddle—"

He went on doggedly. "But I have meddled because, if I could save you from shipwreck, it would be worth—even the sacrifice of your friendship. But it's no use. You are bound to go over the falls alone. Nobody on the bank can help you."

Judith had lost all patience. "On the bank? So you stand on the safe bank of respectability and deign to stretch a hand to me, a sinner? Dr. Dorn, you are odious."

He threw his head back, and began to walk rapidly toward College road. Judith had to take very long steps to keep up with him. She watched the ludicrous shadows that they made on the walk, and once was near hysterical laughter.

She ran up the Stedway steps in a burst of speed that left him behind. He raised a hand to stop her, as she reached for the doorbell.

"There was a question that I wished to ask you," he said solemnly. "It might have meant the clearing up of a hideous shadow. I can't ask you now. Good night."

Skidmore Students Hear From Japanese

St. Mary's and Clearmont School Send Out Portfolios Through Junior Red Cross This Week.

The fourth grade at Skidmore has received a portfolio through the Junior Red Cross from the Chiyada School, Abe County, Shidzuoka prefecture, Japan. The portfolio was unusually good and presented the dress of the natives, the girl students wearing native dress while the boy students were shown on English costumes. The students carried sand to pay the expenses incurred with sending the portfolio to the Skidmore students. Miss Maude Linville is teacher of the fourth grade at Skidmore.

St. Mary's School at Clyde, sent a Christmas program and a letter to the Sia Day School at San Ysidro School, New Mexico. The booklet was very cleverly done and one of the features was a set of directions for making Christmas bells.

Burlington Wants Trophy for Keep

School as Won Cup Two Years On Sale Of Christmas Seals And is Working Hard.

The Burlington Junction High School students for the past two years have proven themselves to be the best Christmas Seal sellers, and as a result have come into possession of the silver Trophy Cup for such sales. When the cup has been held by one School in the county for three consecutive years, the school then becomes permanent owner of the cup. This high school is putting forth a heroic effort, to win out this year again and in that way retain the cup permanently. The citizens are rallying to the school in this endeavor.

Pickering's Science Class Makes Survey

Another Loving Cup Is Added to the School's Trophy Case for Boys' Basketball Tournament Victory.

A survey of the General Science class at Pickering High School was conducted recently, to determine the diseases and number of cases of each, the pupils have had. As a result, it was found that out of twenty-two pupils there had been nineteen cases of influenza, nineteen cases of red measles, eighteen cases of whooping cough, seventeen cases of chickenpox, fourteen cases of German measles, fourteen cases of mumps, seven cases of pneumonia, six cases of scarlet fever, four cases of pink-eye, three cases of diphtheria, two cases of smallpox and one case of typhoid fever.

Very interesting experiments are being done by the Science class to find how to remove stains and grease spots.

The National Geographic Magazine, subscribed for by the high school is greatly enlarging their interests.

Another loving cup has been added to our trophy case, as a result of the boys' victory in the county tournament. This makes twelve cups in the case. They won the state tournament, 1924 at Springfield. Besides winning in county tournaments they have had victories at St. Joseph, Rosendale and Hopkins. They are a team that any town should be proud of.

Contributions to the "Beauty Corner" in the intermediate room still continue to be of great value. This week several unique articles from Mexico were brought by Alice Hanna. Glen Locke brought a piece of olive wood from Jerusalem. Contributions have been brought from several other countries—France, California, China and Japan.

The grades have worked diligently selling Christmas Seals. The sales amounted to $9.45. The intermediate room sold the largest number of seals.

Burlington Junction

(J. Howard Thompson, Correspondent)

Everybody is looking forward to the Christmas cantata, to be given by the chorus of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Sunday night, December the 19th. This is an annual event with the Methodist people, and is always looked for with eager delight. The house will be crowded to the full.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rutherford and family have the deepest sympathy of the entire community in the death of their daughter, Helen. She was but twenty years of age, and a girl of great promise. She was buried Friday afternoon in the Ohio Cemetery, by the Rev. A. L. Ragsdale, her pastor, assisted by the Rev. J. Howard Thompson, pastor of the local Methodist Church. She will be greatly missed.

Out of respect for Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rutherford, in the death of their daughter Helen, late Wednesday night, the Parent Teachers Association did not meet last Thursday night as it was scheduled to meet, and will not now meet until the second Thursday night in January. A good program will then be given.

The Rev. D. B. Warren crated his fine Irish Setter, of which mention was made a few days ago, and shipped it to Chicago where it was sold. He received the neat sum of fifty dollars for it.

The W. F. M. S. of the Methodist Church held a very interesting meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Corken, last Tuesday afternoon, despite the ice and snow and sleet making walking most difficult. There were fifteen ladies present, and all greatly enjoyed the meeting.

The canvas for funds for the new Methodist Hospital, located in St. Joseph, was completed last Thursday night, the Rev. J. Howard Thompson finishing the task in the Maryville Community.

Mayor Jeffries, of Moberly, recently vetoed an ordinance permitting Sunday night pictures in his town, solely on the ground that he believed that the American people were already spending too much money for pleasure. When you read his complete statement, you cannot help being impressed with his logical reasoning. There may be a shade of truth in what he says.

But twenty-one more days from today, Friday, and not only the month of December will have gone, but the year 1926 will have sung its swan song. I am wondering what an invoice, in morals, in intellectual achievement, and financial success would reveal. I wonder what results you would find if you would carefully review your life in all its phases for the past twelve months. In some moment of solitude, just try it and see what you will find.

Miss Jennie Clark has gone to California to live. She left last Thursday night. She was met in Kansas City by her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Lewis, of Marshalltown, Ia., who accompanied her. Her father went with her as far as Kansas City. She will be greatly missed from the younger set of town. She was a leader and great worker among the young people of the Christian Church.

You will receive this notice in time to read about the supper being given by the women of the Christian Church, in connection with the bazaar being given today. These good women deserve your patronage. Go and eat supper with them. The bazaar and meals are being served in the basement of the church building.

Miss Jennie Clark had so ingratiated herself into the friendship of her young friends, that they planned and successfully executed a farewell dinner for her at the Homer Carmichael home last Saturday night, followed by attending the show at the Grand Theater. To say that a good time was enjoyed by all, would be stating a fact in its strongest terms. Those present were the Misses Rachel Graves, Iola Hankins, Mabel Carmichael, Mary Featherby, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Carmichael, and their two sons, Victor and Leroy, with the honor guest.

The Big Four Hardware Company has entirely renovated and redecorated the interior of the business building. New shelving has been installed throughout, and the walls and ceiling have been painted and decorated. James Weable has done the carpenter work and Henry Browning has done the decorating. The building now has a very neat appearance on the interior.

Permit me to call attention again to the Community Christmas treat to be given the "Kiddies" in and around Burlington Junction, Saturday afternoon, December, the 18th or one week from today. Several hundred pounds of Candy have been purchased and we think there will be plenty. So children, don't fail to get your treat on that day from the merchants and citizens of our town.

Virgil Barrett, son of O. Barrett, had a streak of ill fortune last Wednesday night. While out coasting with others he unfortunately fell and his arm was broken in some way. His arm was not only broken, but he received bruises upon his face and body. It seems that he fell from his sled, and being in a crowd, he was run over by his playmates, resulting in the injuries. His fracture was soon reduced, and he is now getting along in fine shape.

The Burlington Junction Post announces this week that it will gladly give space next week for any letter that may be written to Santa Claus. Now is the time to notify that important personage of your wants and desires, so get your communications in not later than Tuesday, that he may know just what you want and expect him to bring.

Mrs. G. L. Yaple, in company with her son, Lee G. Yaple, and Mr. J. E. Forsythe, of the Yaple Hardware Co., were in Red Oak, Ia., last Friday looking after some business interests. Mrs. Lee Yaple, and Mrs. Mary Coile, accompanied them as far as Clarinda, where they visited until the return of the others when all returned home together.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. House, since having sold their beautiful bungalow home in the north part of town are remodeling their store building and arranging a suite of rooms on the second floor of that building, where they expect to make their home. When completed they will have a very attractive and comfortable place to live. J. A. Clark is doing the carpenter work, and Henry Browning is looking after the inside painting and decorating.

The various towns of the county and nearby districts are enticing many Christmas shoppers at this time. To see the crowds gathering around the bargain counter would impress one with the thought, that the Nodaway Countians are not yet ready to go to the poor house. There is yet much money in circulation.

Mrs. W. H. Hindman, the wife of Dr. Hindman and a graduate nurse, accompanied Mrs. M. C. Forney, of Clarinda, to the Hospital in St. Joseph, Monday for treatment.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—Wheat sagged to lower levels on the Chicago board of trade today, making up all of its losses, however, in the weaker opening and losing none during trading.

Wheat closed ⅜ to ¾ cent lower on bearish foreign news, the cash prices remaining steady. Trading was light during the short session.

Corn closed ¼ to ⅜ cent higher, losing early but finishing strong on local buying and short covering. Cash prices were steady.

Oats closed ⅛c up to ⅛c off. Local cereal interests were good takers of cash oats, and cash prices closed steady.

Provisions were dull and closed lower.

SUNDAY MATINEE and MONDAY NIGHT
A great star in a thrilling picture of life back of the footlights

Norma Shearer in "UPSTAGE"

Never has beautiful Norma Shearer had a greater starring picture than this one about the life of a vaudeville song-and-dance girlie. As the "hoofer" who travels the one night stands, the popular star gives an altogether brilliant, lovable portrayal. She takes you "backstage" to a new, world of thrills, romance, humor and there unfolds a tale of love and intrigue that will grip and tug at the heart-strings. You loved her in "His Secretary" and "The Waning Sex;" she'll win you again in this great film. Also Kinograms and Sport Lights.

Santa Has Same Good News for Radio Fans

The E. C. Bagby Auto Co. has become Authorized Agents for the Mohawk Radio

The pioneer travels no easy road. Going it alone, breaking trail for the less courageous to follow, he fairly earns whatever his reward may be. For three years MOHAWK pioneered one-dial radio, blazing a trail into which other feet are turning, for it ends in leadership and profit. Now we claim the reward of the pioneer. And MOHAWK will get the reward in the 1926-1927 radio season. With a three-year start in knowledge, hard won through countless experiments MOHAWK has first claim to public acceptance of one-dial control as radio's greatest recent achievement. We have designed a better set, established a better price. MOHAWK for 1926-1927 is a 6-tube set of amazing compactness and technical excellence. It is a shielded set at considerably less than the cost of most other high quality shielded 6-tube sets. MOHAWK offers startling values in original and exclusive cabinet and console designs. MOHAWK is the perfect one dial radio receiver.

Console Set $110.00
Other Sets as low as $57.50
